

Cargill Cocoa & Chocolate North America

November, 2015

Dear Valued Customer,

After a careful review of our business, we have announced our decision to discontinue the distribution of the deZaan gourmet chocolate products in North America. Cargill's acquisition of ADM's global chocolate and compound business in August of this year included the deZaan-branded line of premium gourmet chocolate, but the acquisition did not include the deZaan trademark itself. As such, we have decided to discontinue selling these products in North America.

Our team will work closely with you in the coming weeks to fulfill as many of your deZaan gourmet chocolate needs as possible. We also stand ready to discuss other Cargill Cocoa & Chocolate products that are available via our distributor partners – please click on the link below to connect with us. Thank you for your patience and understanding during this time of transition.

Sincerely,

Cargill Cocoa & Chocolate North America
